Complaints about fast driving on Be street are common. Mothers of small children are concerned over the safety the little ones who will wander into the street in spite of watchful care. It is said that some auto drivers are using the street as a speedway unmindful of intersections or persons. Warning signs tell of an approaching intersection and warn of a 15 mile speed limit are on the road headed and the race goes merrily on.

A similarity of names was the cause of a recent street report that Mr. N. Thayer of Middledam and Boston was dead. Linwood Fogg was in Hanover

“The most novel sign we have run into in our travel this summer is one which faces the traveler just as he makes that double horseshoe turn from Norway Village out on the Bridgton road.

"It reads 'Ox Shoes for Sale.' The fellow who put that sign must either be a punster or an idiot."

He talks further and very much to the point:

Speaking of Norway, we always wondered why our friend, Fred Sanborn, who travels so much, does not start a campaign to cut out the double bend leading out of his town toward Bridgeton and Lovell?

MAINE RURAL LETTER CARRIERS CONVENTION

Nearly four hundred letter carriers and their wives gathered at South Paris for the meeting of the Maine Rural Letter Carriers Association, Friday and Saturday.

The convention opened Friday morning with a joint meeting of the Association and Auxiliary.

Rev. R. H. Colby offered prayer. The address of welcome was given by County Attorney E. Walker Abbott, a member of the local chamber of commerce. Greetings in behalf of the Oxford County letter carriers were extended by Arthur A. Walker. Response was made by Charles A. Carter, vice president. Sergie L. Warren of Oakland presided during the rest of the session. The reports of the officers and committees were given at the one o'clock session. In the afternoon the visitors enjoyed a motor trip to Paris Hill with forty cars in the line. "Gram" Dunham and the Panama Scout camp were visited.

Congressman Donald B. Partridge of Norway was the banquet speaker at the exercises held in Odd Fellows dining hall at 6:30. During a short entertainment in the lodge room the tables were cleared and dancing was enjoyed until 11 o'clock. Huff's orchestra of South Paris played the music.

At the Saturday session of the meeting at Odd Fellows hall the report of the Credentials Committee was read. This was followed by roll call of officers and delegates. A report of the National Convention and the report of the standing committees were given. An interesting discussion of legislation of interest to the rural carriers followed. Unfinished business and new business was then taken up.

It was decided to have the next meeting with the Knox-Lincoln-Sagadahoc Association in 1933. Place to meet will be determined later. Resolutions for the good of the association were adopted. Interesting remarks were made by J. W. Ridout of Little Intervale; James A. Marceau of Valley Falls, R. I.; president of the New England conference; Franklin H. Stahl, Manchester, N. H., secretary of New England conference; Earle Clifton, postmaster, South Paris. Officers elected and installed are:

"While" was a dreamer on his left arm Sunday, and broke the bone. This is the second time this arm has been broken.

VISIONS REALIZED

He is only a dreamer. How often have we heard the expression used in a sort of pitying or slighting way. Only a dreamer. Yet it is the dreamers who have made the world. Columbus was a dreamer who dreamed of a new continent beyond the horizon. Washington was a dreamer who dreamed of a new nation. Carnegie, the father of the steel industry, was a dreamer who dared to back his dream. Edison was a dreamer, who saw his vision of the electric light come true. The Wright brothers were dreamers who saw the airplane coming through the lines of the heavens. Ford and others back of the automobile industry were one day dreamers, who have seen their daring visions come true. Only dreamers, yet how many have they given to make the world what it is today. Their daring, their vision, their long look into the future has made it all possible. True enough, the plodder was necessary to work out the inspiration seized by these men from the clouds, but without the dreamer, the plodder would be a plodder still and progress would be found waiting at the cross roads.
